REMARKABLE!

Kansas LITY, Mo., Sept. 20, 1882.
think it a duty I owe to humanity to say what your remedy has done for me. One year ago I contracted a had case of Blood Disease, and not knowing the result of such troubles, I allowed it to run on for some time, but finally applied to the best physician in this city, who treated me for six months. In that time I took over 600 pills of Proto-lodde of Mercury, Ng grain cach, and had run down in weight from 100 to 157 pounds, and was condined on the desire Mercuria E heumatism, scarcely turn myself over. The most elegant costumes which are brought over from Paris this late in the season by exclusivedressmakers differ from the importations of the shops in many respects. Soft fallie silks and taffetas in and changeable effects make up a large proportion of the silk toilets imported. Printed silks stamped like satins are preferred this season to brocades. and strawberry red is stamped with a figure in strawberry red and combined with soft faile silk in plain strawberry red. Rich trimmings of ceru embroidery in the heavy lace meshes of Russian point complete this dreas. An exquisite French dress of maize and blue or corn flower blue is made of a lovely silk, in which the royal blue tint of our own "bachelor button," the corn flower of France and Germany, is "shot" with sheen of gold. The underskirt of the costume is figured with wreaths in blue and trimmed with yellow lace embroidery. The bouffant drapery of the toilet and the stylish antique waist are of plain "shot" silk and richly trimmed with yellow embroidery and chains and rosette bows of blue velvet. Every one is wearing yellow of some shade; houses are draped with yellow hangings, and bonnets, latz, flowers, laces and dress materials all have a billious tendency. Fair and dark beauties alike affect the color, whereas until recently it was considered suitable only to brunettes of a decided type; but in its brownish shade is in now thought to be as becoming to fair people as is pink, mauve or blue. There is an infinite variety of yellow already crowding the store windows and adorning the modiste's parlors, and still there's more to follow. Even now they run from a yellow, Havana brown, and wallflower in all its varieties, to bright pumpkin and sunflower. figure in strawberry red and com-bined with soft failie silk in plain strawberry red. Among pretty dainties which fashionable young ladies are preparing for summer wear—works of their own hands—are garden-party bats of ficeile lace, lining the inside of crown and brim with pale blue or rose-colored Surah or Canton crape. Another fancy is to run black velvet ribbon through the meshes, finishing with a knot of velvet on the top of the crowd.

Lilaces, crocus and arbutus blossoms, laburnum snowdrops and, above all, daffodils and jouquils, pale harbingers of spring, "all sprinkled with dea" made of powdered crystals, are the corsage and coiffure bouquets par excellence with dress evening toilets.

Wide collars and cuffs of yellow Florer tine lace are worn by little girls. This is a neavy linen lace in the flower and leaf de-signs of old Florentine point.

Cen. Green B. Raum, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, does not think the consumer will be greatly benefited by the reduction in the tax on tobacco. To a newspaper man he remarked yesterday that the men who do the smoking and chewing will pay as much for the same quality-and quantity of tobacco when the new law goes into eliect as they are paying now, and he gave his reasons something after this fashion:

"Cigar makers all over the country have

"Cigar makers all over the country have been striking, and manufacturers have been discounting the future by acceding to the demands of the workmen. The first profits will therefore go into the pockets of the employes. Manufacturers will come in later. There is little likelihood that the in later. There is little likelihood that the retail prices of cigars and cigarettee will be changed. Plugged tobacco is pressed and marked for the trade in regulation sizes and of satablished grade, and there is not likely to be a change in that class of goods. Then again the price of the raw material has advanced lately. Altogether there is little prospect that the consumer will be a very large gainer by the reduction in taxes on tobacco."

High License in Minnespolis,

There is an awful warning to jokera in the experience of a Minneapolis Alderman—a warning against trying to get a second laugh out of one joke. A committee of the Common Council reported in favor of fixing the license for the sale of liquors at $1,000. The leader of the Democratic members—friends of the salon lee of the Common Council reported in layor of fixing the license for the sato of liquors at $1,000. The leader of the Democratic members—friends of the saloon men—facetiously proposed that it be made $2.000. This was a joke, and the saloon men who were in the room laughed heartily; they thought the principle of high license had been reduced to an absurdity. The motion was voted down. The Democratic leader, pleased with the effect of his joke, undertook to repeat it by moving that the license be fixed at $1,000—and he laughed again. But to his unspeakable horror the Council adopted the motion, and the joker was carried out in convulsions. There was a majority against an increase, but a couple of Democratic members concluded their leader have what he was about and they voted.

considerations. It was found, in the first place, that enough saloons to supply the city with liquous could well afford to pay $1,000 a year for the privilege. It was found that among those which could not afford it were the saloons which were particularly offensive and dangerous. It was not believed, however, that the report would be adopted, and a license of $1,500 and $1,500 and

One day he was walking along Wychstreet, a kind of slum thoroughfare leading to Drury Lane, when he passed a group of dirty little Arabs. One little female terdemalion looked up at him as he passed and then called out to her younger brother: "Hi, Archie! d'you know who him is? He's Becky Sharp." Thackeray was astounded. On inquiry he found that the little thing was the child of an actress, who had gratually come down to sewing who had gradually come down to sewing rousers for cheap tailors. Thackeray trousers for chesp tailors. Thackeray found the poor woman in a garret, boiling potatoes for dinner. She had not been able to get the whole of Vanity Fair, but only a few odd parts. Thackeray sent her e a complete set, and something to give her e a relish to her dinner of potatoes. "By Jove" said Thackeray to a friend, "strange, as it may seem, that little incident gave me more pleasure than if I had received a complementary letter from his Grace, the Duke of Devonshire.
